

Foods Containing Xylitol - Xylitol can be deadly for dogs. Always check the ingredients before giving something to your dog. Some common items that contain Xylitol (which acts as a sweetener) are: peanut butter, candy, baking supplies, protein bars/powders and dental products. Xylitol can also be known as Birch Sugar.

Know The Signs of Poisoning:

Excessive salivation
Difficulty breathing
Excitability
Loss of consciousness
Seizures
Vomiting
Diarrhea

Important Info to Gather:

What time did the poisoning occur?

- Knowing the amount of time that your pet was exposed can help a vet determine how to treat them

What substance were they exposed to?

- Take all packages, bottles, and labels with you so that the vet can read the MSDS data and create a plan of action

Did they vomit?

- If your pet has limited, take a sample of the vomit with you in a Ziplock bag so that it can be tested if necessary

Contact your vet!

- They will be able to give you a plan of action if they feel there are steps that need to be taken before transporting them to the veterinary practice